

BRITEX AUSTRALIA'S FINEST STAINLESS

Britex is one of the world's most innovative fabricators of premium quality stainless steel products. The Britex name is internationally recognised and synonymous with specialised stainless solutions.

AUSTRALIAN MANUFACTURING

In choosing Britex as your preferred supplier of stainless products, you are supporting the Australian manufacturing industry and helping to provide jobs to Australian sheet metal workers. A family owned and operated business, Britex is one of Australia's largest employers of stainless sheet metal workers and is committed to further developing local manufacturing expertise. Today, Britex employs more fabrication staff than ever before and our team continues to develop each year due to ongoing support from specifiers, wholesalers and contractors nationwide.

SPECIALISED STAINLESS FABRICATION

A strong, local fabrication presence and more than 70 years experience in product design means that Britex can fabricate stainless products to customised specifications for individual projects. Local fabrication also ensures complete control over our product designs and a capability to adapt to changes in building codes, standards and design trends as they occur.

To ensure our standard product range is as extensive as possible - and of the highest quality - we combine our own QA procedures and manufacturing expertise with primary build materials and stock items brought in from all around the globe. This allows Britex to offer a product range that's truly world class but tailored specifically to the Australian market.

THE SPECIFIER'S CHOICE

It's the quality of our products, the breadth of our range and the expertise of our staff that makes Britex the ideal choice when specifying specialised stainless products. Britex sales and technical staff are true specialists in stainless steel and offer a wealth of experience to specifiers in designing and selecting stainless fixtures that are best suited to each and every individual project.

Since 1938, Britex has provided the Australian commercial building and design industry with exceptional quality stainless products befitting of our own world class facilities. Having undertaken continuous research and development since inception, Britex maintains its position as The Specifier's Choice for stainless products due to an enviable track record of designing and manufacturing premium quality products and providing unparalleled service to specifiers and contractors alike.
